There are 68 transactions (rows) and 546 items (columns) – 546 is the product descriptions involved in the dataset, and 68 transactions are collections of these items.

Density is the percentage of non-zero cells in a sparse matrix (a sparse matrix is a matrix where most of the elements are zero). You can say it as the total number of items that are purchased divided by a possible number of items in that matrix $\text{Density} = 68 * 546 * .02265137$ $\text{Density} = 841.000065$

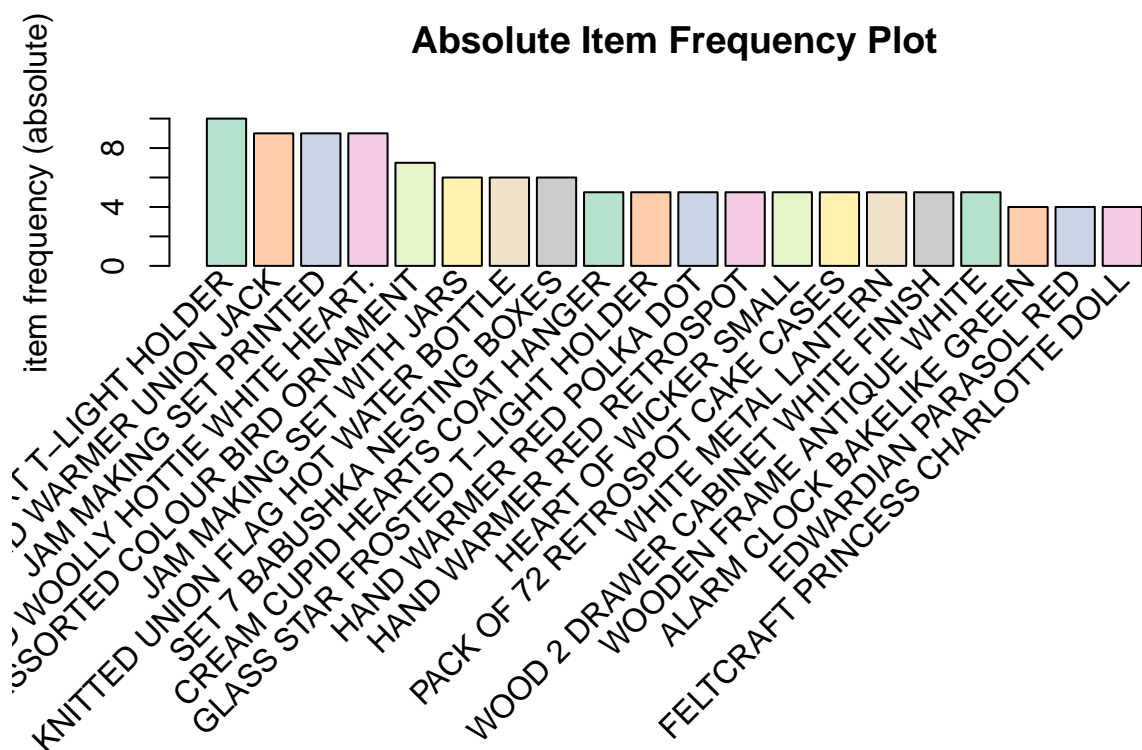

Element length distribution tells you how many transactions there are for 1-itemset, 2-itemset, 3-itemset, etc. The first row is the number of items and the second row is the number of transactions.
